Oshkosh Employment Office is Combining Plants of Valley
for Openings

Unemployment is being fought vigorously by the Wisconsin industrial commission, through its employment department at Oshkosh, according to letters received in Appleton by mill owners, the chamber of commerce and others.

The department is anxious to secure jobs for as many men and women as possible and to do this is communicating with all concerns which hire any considerable number of help. It is anxious to secure places for accountants, bookkeepers, stenographers, office boys, salesmen, stockroom help, mechanical draftsmen, shop foremen, chauffeurs, watchmen, cement finishers, carpenters, blacksmiths, millwrights, machinists, stationary engineers, auto mechanics, pattern makers, firemen, porters, janitors, trade apprentices, dictaphone operators, bookkeepers, salesladies, factory help, domestics, nurses, and office clerks.

The letter states that the department is prepared to supply any help of this kind on short notice.

SLOW TAXPAYERS MUST PAY PENALTY ON RETURNS

Wednesday was the last day on which the first quarterly installment of the income tax for 1922 could be paid without penalty. G. C. Finch of Oshkosh, deputy internal revenue collector, who was at the city hall the last month assisting persons in Appleton and surrounding towns in making out their income tax returns, kept his office open until late Wednesday night. He returned to Oshkosh Thursday morning.

HAVE AIR ROUTES FROM LONDON TO BELFAST

London—British air experts are planning establishment of air routes between Ireland and England. Coincident with the establishment of the Free State government, plans will be made for immediate operation of passenger and parcels services between English air ports and Queenstown, Dublin and Belfast.

Owing to the rail boat and rail route between London and Queens town and on some routes between London and Dublin and London and Belfast, it now takes twelve to four teen hours to traverse the 450 miles between London and Belfast. Air mail planes, even at the moderate average speed of eighty miles an hour, will cut seven or eight hours from the Belfast trip.

Music Memory Contest NO. 30

ROBERT SCHUMANN
SCHUMANN
German Composer of Middle Nineteenth Century

Robert Schumann (1810-1856) was one of the most important musical personalities in the history of the art. Educated to be a lawyer, Schumann's romantic imagination and poetic insight led him to leave law for music.

He wrote in all forms, although his dramatic compositions were unsuccessful. His greatest works are four symphonies, concert overtures, and piano concertos. In the domain of chamber music, Schumann wrote, not only string quartets, but several compositions for unusual instrumental combinations. He left compositions for piano, and his songs are among the greatest contributions to song literature.

As a critic, Schumann's writings in the "New Journal of Music" gave to the world the works of Bach, Mendelssohn, Schubert, Berlioz, Chopin, Liszt, Wagner and Brahms.

One of the shortest of compositions, but one of the most universally beloved, is this beautiful little Trau-merci, or Love Song, by Robert Schumann. This exquisite bit of melody is one of a group of similar short pieces for piano, called by the composer, "Scenes of Childhood." "Trau-merci" is an example of poetic thought.

The selection may be had in the following record:
Columbia, 40795
Edison, 80071
Duo Art, 5555

Brunswick, 10029

DEFINES SPARROW AS ALIEN ENEMY

L. G. Schussman Gives Interesting Talk on Birds Before Fond du Lac Women

One immigrant which has not been successfully put through the American melting pot is the English sparrow. Leo G. Schussman, superintendent of Kaukauna schools, said in addressing the Fond du Lac Women's club recently.

"The English sparrow has not mixed with other birds," he said. "In fact this bird is an enemy and cannot tolerate American songbirds with which it is always picking a quarrel."

Mr. Schussman showed how birds are man's friend and kill the innumerable insect pests which menace his food supply. As an example of this service he mentioned the rose breasted grosbeak which is the only natural enemy of the potato bug, and which is the only bird which can reduce its numbers effectively.

Birds which winter in this part of the country are the downy woodpecker, nuthatch, brown creeper, bluejay and chickadee. Mr. Schussman said, birds to arrive early in the spring are the robin, bluebird, crossbill, meadow lark and bobolink. American sparrows which are of great benefit, he said, are the song sparrow, the vesper sparrow, white crown sparrow and the white throated sparrow.

Pictures of nearly every kind of bird which frequents this section were shown the audience by Mr. Schussman. He urged the use of camera and field glass in hunting birds instead of shotgun or rifle.

WINNING SCHOOL MAY CHOOSE MUSIC PRIZE

The music committee of Appleton Women's club wishes to correct an error made in the statement of the prizes for the music memory contest. It was stated that the second prize offered to the schools was a $15 phonograph or $15 worth of records donated by the Carroll music store. This should have been stated, a No. 4 Victrola, worth $25 or, in case the school which wins the prize already has a Victrola, the prize will be $25 worth of records.

No Danger Of Stamp Famine At Local P. O.

Enough postage stamps were received at Appleton postoffice Thursday to keep people in the city and on rural routes ticking till August.

The consignment consisted of five boxes of two-cent stamps and one box of assorted denominations, indicating how tremendously popular the two-cent stamp is over other denominations. The value of the shipment is approximately $10,000 and it contains something over 2,000,000 stamps.

Along with the stamps came a supply of postal cards and envelopes sufficient to last till the end of the summer. The new shipment brings the value of postal supplies in the local postoffice to near the $100,000 mark.

1,200 PEOPLE SEE STYLE DISPLAYS

Cloudemans - Gage Company Has Living Models at Opening Event Wednesday

Seated in comfortable chairs viewing living models in the latest spring gowns pressing down the aisles within arm's reach of them, 1,200 persons attended the spring style opening at Cloudemans-Gage Co's store Wednesday night.

The show was held on the second floor which was handsomely decorated with palms and mirrors. There were 14 models and as each appeared before the audience the gown was described by H. L. Young, advertising manager who was in charge. The model then passed down the aisles to give everyone an opportunity to see the gown at close range.

Suits, dresses, coats, skirts and sweaters and millinery for adults were shown and coats, suits and hats for misses and play suits, coats and caps for boys. The models, Ada Lindberg, Pearl Zipp, Marion Getschow, Ethel Richert, Mirna Shamrock, Julietta Bruckner, Ethel Cloudemans, Rosemary and Annette Mae Young, Miss J. N. Cole, Alice DeLong, Louise Bolte and Aloysius Gage, are practically all connected with the store. Wedding outfits were not overlooked and among those who received the greatest applause were Ethel Richert, Marion Getschow and Alice Jane DeLong, who were as a bride, bridesmaid and flower girl.

Students Are Enjoying This Storm Result

"It's an all wind that blows nobody good," and the wind that brought the storm causing the destruction of some of the beautiful trees on the campus of Lawrence college was not an all one.

The fallen giants are being removed from the campus, sawed up into appropriate lengths and being used for fuel to cook the meals at Ormsby hall. The students regret the passing of the trees, but they greet with pleasure anything that means something to eat.

We'll back Vicks against any cold in Appleton

Every family here is invited to try the DIRECT treatment for all cold troubles

ABSORBED, like a liniment, and, at the same time, INHALED, as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately
the congested, inflamed air passages.

LITERALLY millions of families who have tried Vicks are now continual users of our product.

So, naturally, we want you to make the test. Here is our offer—
Buy a 35c. jar from your druggist—use all or part of it—if you are not deligated with the results, mail us the top of the carton and the purchase price will be cheerfully refunded.

Made for years past
We make this offer and have made it for years because Vicks really helps the majority of cold troubles.

Vicks doesn't relieve every case, of course. No remedy can do that.

But if it fails in your case your money will be returned without question and remember YOU ARE THE SOLE JUDGE.

A druggist's discovery
A number of years ago a North Carolina druggist, searching for a better way to treat colds, hit upon a wonderful formula.

He combined in the form of a salve the best of Nature's remedies for colds—
Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine, with other valuable ingredients.

When this salve is applied over the throat and chest it not only penetrates and stimulates like a liniment, but the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat. Thus the medication is carried with each breath thru the nose and throat to the lungs.

Now used from coast to coast
This remedy, Vicks VapoRub, won instant local favor and its fame has spread, county by county, state by state,

until now Vicks is a family standby from coast to coast.

Over 17 million jars are used yearly.

Just right for children
Mothers like to use Vicks because it is applied externally.

It avoids dosing and upsetting the children's stomachs.

When kiddies come in wet and sniffling
it is applied to prevent colds.

It helps to keep off attacks of spasmodic croup—it is a quick treatment for all cold troubles.

In addition, its cooling, soothing qualities make it useful every day for cuts, burns, bruises, stings and skin troubles.

Prevent grip—pneumonia
Grip and pneumonia are frequently the results of carelessness.

Keep away from the sneezers and coughers in street cars and public places, if possible.

If you are obliged to mingle with them, insert some Vicks in the nostrils just before going out. It stimulates the membrane and helps Nature to repel bacteria.

At the first sign of a cold
During this grip-pneumonia weather it is "better to be safe than sorry." Here is the safest plan if people would just follow it—

At the first sign of a cold go home, take a hot bath for 30 minutes and drink several glasses of hot lemonade.

Take a laxative and a good sweat under blankets. Then dry the body. Apply Vicks liberally over throat and chest, covering with hot flannel cloths.

Go to bed and leave the bed-clothes

loose about the neck so that the medicated vapors will be inhaled all night long.

This treatment will often banish a cold over night and so avoid the possibility of grip or pneumonia.

How Vicks should be used For Spasmodic Croup, Children's Colds—Rub Vicks over the throat and chest until the difficult breathing is relieved, then spread on thickly and cover with a hot flannel cloth. One application at bed time usually prevents a night attack of croup.

For Head Colds, Asthma, Catarrh, Hay Fever—Vicks should be melted in a spoon and the vapors inhaled, or a little can be applied up the nostrils and snuffed up the head.

For Deep Chest Colds, Sore Throat, Tonsillitis, Bronchitis, Coughs—Vicks should be applied over the throat and chest—if necessary, first using hot, wet cloths to open the pores of the skin—
then rubbed in well until the skin is red, spread on thickly and covered with one or two thicknesses of hot flannel cloth.

If the cough is annoying, swallow small pieces the size of a pea.

Vapors Important—Remember that half the effect of Vicks is in the inhalation of its vapors. So when applied over throat and chest leave bed-covers and night clothing loose at the neck, so that these vapors can be freely inhaled.

A YEAR'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Two years have passed since 700 or more Appleton merchants, manufacturers, professional men and other public spirited citizens launched the Appleton Chamber of Commerce with high hopes for its success and for the good it would be to their community. The meeting in Elk hall Tuesday night marked the second "birthday" anniversary of the organization and it was fitting at that time that the work and accomplishments of the last year should be reviewed. A report of the year's activities had been prepared by Hugh G. Corbett, the managing secretary, and a copy of the report was placed at the elbow of every member so that he would know what his organization has been doing for him and for his city.

The function of the chamber of commerce is not only to increase the wealth of the city but also to conserve that which is already there. The two years since the chamber was organized have not been opportune for bringing in new industries and for adding largely to the wealth of the community but they have offered many opportunities for helping industries which already are here, and by exercise of careful judgment, for saving money for members of the chamber and the public generally.

The chamber of commerce has grasped many of these opportunities and its greatest accomplishments have been in that field. There is little that is spectacular in saving money and consequently these activities receive little publicity. Very few people know that one committee alone saved Appleton merchants $15,000 in the last year by refusing to endorse advertising projects when investigation showed that the proposed schemes had little or no advertising value but were only for the purpose of obtaining money from merchants and business men.

It is impossible to determine how much money was saved Appleton because the chamber of commerce has frowned on attempts of promoters to foist questionable schemes on this city. The chamber of commerce does not believe in financing institutions which wish to locate here. It believes its function is to assist these enterprises by suggesting sites, bring local capital and legitimate enterprises together, protect the new enterprises against excessive costs for sites and to do all it can to provide good streets, ample water supply, trackage and such other things as are necessary for proper development of industry. The chamber of commerce is doing all these things. It believes the city will be better served if it can induce industries to come here because they are convinced Appleton is the ideal location for them, than by tempting enterprises to locate here by offering bonuses and other inducements.

Promotion of good will and cooperation among the citizens generally, providing opportunity for public discussion, bringing about a closer relationship between the city and its rural environs, and giving the city publicity by entertaining convention visitors and providing cheerful service for tourists are among other large accomplishments of the chamber of commerce about which little is said but which, in the long run, perhaps are more important than acquisition of new industries.

Everything that a chamber of commerce does cannot be measured by a yardstick; there are many activities of which the public hears little but which are of lasting importance and if viewed in the proper perspective are the true measure of the organization's accomplishments.

A NEAR-BY LESSON IN AMERICANISM

Hans Erbst, residing on Washington Island, walked approximately 100 miles over almost impassable roads and over the treacherous ice of Death's Door to Sturgeon Bay and back in order to become a citizen of the United States. For the last five years he had endeavored to complete his citizenship papers but was prevented by unusual and unforeseen difficulties. The population of Washington Island is placed at some 1,000 inhabitants, and with the naturalization of Mr. Erbst every person living on the island is said to be a full-fledged citizen of the United States. Many of its settlers were foreigners, but all have taken the oath of allegiance to the country of their choice.

It is an unusual distinction that attaches to Washington Island. In many respects this island would not appeal to the average American as an inviting place in which to live and seek one's fortune. It is more or less inaccessible and for much of the year is quite detached from the rest of the world. Its winters are severe and its pastimes and advantages are limited. Many of its people are of the rough, rugged exterior of the north, and would not be at home in dress suits or at the opera. Yet it is not improbable that the people of Washington Island are more contented, more sincere in their relationships, more appreciative of their scant blessings, comforts and opportunities than the average person in our steam heated flats and protected motor cars.

The people of Washington Island have made their country and their place in it. They work hard and they practice the simple virtues. Doubtless they are happier and find more of beauty in their natural surroundings than those who live in the garish and artificial atmosphere of the city. They count their blessings many while the cave dweller of the city flat complains that his are few. In the city, in nearly every community, we find discord, strife, discontent, envy, even hatred of society and of government.

There are no anarchists on Washington Island. There are no members of the I. W. W. They are not socialists. The people there work for a living. Every man, woman and child on the island is a citizen of the United States of America and proud of it. It takes mettle, it takes character, it takes will, to make prosperity, possibly in some instances to make a living, on Washington Island. It is a test of resourcefulness, persistence, individual worth. We have what we have and are what we are in the main, by dint of our own effort. The same tests apply everywhere. In Appleton, in Chicago, in Pennsylvania, in Wyoming. It is because they frequently are not met where society has been highly developed, highly specialized, where there are too many enervating surroundings, too many luxuries, too much extravagance and waste, too much artificiality, that there is failure and that because of the failure there is animosity, jealousy, improvidence, laziness, viciousness, disloyalty? If the men who are denouncing fate, who are denouncing American institutions, who are preaching the doctrine of hate, had the fundamental virtues, the grit, the capacity for self-denial, of the people of Washington Island, would they be shouting from soap boxes and running to the ranks of the agitators and bomb-throwers, or would they get down to honest work, make a living for themselves and a better future for their children?

Which is the more engaging picture: The man waving the red flag, or the Washington Islander walking a hundred miles over ice and snow for American citizenship?

LISTEN TO THIS

"I am a man 34 years old, 67 inches tall, and I weigh 220 pounds. I put in six or seven hours a day punching a typewriter or camping in an office chair. I have had no serious illness in 10 years and have taken no medicine in that time. I have taken no breakfast for 12 years. I never eat between meals, never eat candy or patronize the soda counter, but I am strong for pie, thickly buttered toast, rich steaks and that sort of thing. My eyes fill with tears of emotion at the thought of a rich and indulgent life. I was examined for life insurance recently, but was penalized for excess weight and because my blood pressure was 145. I smoke a great deal and my physician declares that the high blood pressure probably comes from smoking."

"I have become accustomed to being overweight, but any hint at other abnormalities rather alarms me."

"Please give me any suggestion you can toward reducing my weight and my blood pressure."

This is certainly a heart-rending case. My sympathy goes out to this man—but just as he reaches for it I snatch it back again, for I think he needs the exercise.

I would prescribe two good habits and an accomplishment for such a man. He ought to acquire (1) the eating habit, and (2) the smoking habit. For an accomplishment, I would suggest sawing wood. Still, the man is going on the rocks, and going fast, unless he goes on the rocks voluntarily. Exercise is great medicine for him, as he tells me in another part of his letter which I have omitted—he reduced to 155 pounds while he was in the service one year, mostly spent in camp.

The relation of tobacco with high blood pressure is a very definite one. No other stimulant will so quickly or so persistently elevate a man's blood pressure as tobacco does.

The eating habit is a good one for a man to have. But this man hasn't yet mastered the habit. The habit has mastered him. Can't you see his frailty in that reference to rich dessert and rich steaks? Well, no matter, the scales show a man up, or a woman. Anybody who is overweight overeat.

Let us take up the tobacco habit. A grown man any harm so long as he has the habit well in hand. When the habit has the man, that means organic degeneration. High blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, angina pectoris—these are common everyday marks of tobacco poisoning. How may a tobacco user know whether he has the habit or the habit has him? That is very easy to determine. If he can go all day without tobacco and without growing grumpy over it, the habit hasn't got him. And the only way a tobacco user can tell whether he can do this is by trying it at least once a month.

There is an idea that one with high blood pressure or hardened arteries or Bright's disease should eat no meat, or if he takes any meat it should be only white meats, or something like that. If I had any or all three of these conditions I'd want to eat a reasonable amount of meat, avoiding my physical activity. And of course there is nothing at all in the red meat or white meat notion.

When overeating induces elevation of blood pressure above the normal it is not meat and not any other one kind of food. It is generally much too much of everything good to eat. In this particular case perhaps the victim should Karell.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Five years ago I sold books one summer, and whether it was because I did so much walking then I don't know, but ever since I have had considerable female trouble. In the first place, (Mrs. P. W. O.)

Answer—I can assure you that no amount of walking ever gave any woman such trouble. As for your individual ailments I cannot give advice of that kind. You should consult your physician.

How Not to Live Well. Is it advisable to give a child a laxative once a week just to keep him well, even though his bowels do not require it? How often should a normal child of five years be given a laxative?—(Mrs. E. E. D.)

Answer—No. Never. That is about the most absurd notion in domestic medicine. No one should ever take laxatives as a habit or a rite.

What? For Physical Training? Please suggest some good advice for high school girls. Unfortunately we have a principal who does all in his power to encourage and promote girls' basketball games. With his sanction it is difficult to oppose unless one has something else to offer. The principal even goes so far as to allow credits for girls playing basketball, when they really should be working on their Latin and other subjects.—(W. A. S.)

Answer—Well, more high schools were fortunate enough to have principals of that stripe. Perhaps we shall arrive at that level some day. There is no better subject than basketball for the liberal education of a girl.

Spraying Against Flu. What is the value of daily nose and throat spraying as prevention of influenza? What should be used for the spray?—(H. L. B.)

Answer—in my personal judgment the value is nil. There is no known antiseptic or germicide which will discourage or destroy the germs without injuring the natural protective resistance of the lining of the nose and throat.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

Harding's Honeymoon Year.

Although practically every newspaper of standing has made comment upon what a number of them term "Harding's Honeymoon Year," the discussions devote far more space to the record of the congress than they do to the activities of the chief executive. As the subject is one in which partisanship easily finds full sway the year's record is naturally pointed to with pride by one section of the press and viewed with disdain by those of the opposite faith.

THE PORTLAND (ME.) EVENING EXPRESS AND ADVERTISER (Rep.) says, "It has been claimed for this year that it has been one of more notable achievements than any other in the history of this country in time of peace, and the facts warrant this assertion," while the WHEELING REGISTER (Dem.) contends that "politicians, press and public are sizing it up and judging from the consensus of opinion its rating is not very high." THE DENVER ROCKY MOUNTAIN NEWS (Ind.) reflects a stand taken by no small section of the press when it says, "If a verdict could be given on the first year of the Harding administration, what would it be? A suspended judgment we believe."

OF MR. Harding personally the country thinks well, admires his kindness and human sympathy, and, in the main, has confidence in his advisers," according to ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION (Ind.) and the MUSKOGEE CHRONICLE (Ind.) asserts that "altogether he has demonstrated that he is a greater man than his previous rather inconspicuous career had given him a chance to show."

His record, no argument apparently with the contention of the WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE (Ind.) that when Harding took office "domestic affairs were in a muddle and foreign relations were packed with unpleasant possibilities for governments and peoples."

In summing up the accomplishments for the year the NEW YORK TRIBUNE (Rep.) says, "The peak of deflation has been passed, the worst of liquidation is over and the country is settling down to something like economic stability and normal processes," adding, however, that "it would be foolish to give the federal administration all credit for this sale."

It is upon the record of the Congress, however, that the batteries of criticism are directed and in this attack the president comes in for a share of the blame. Of marked interest is the expression of the BOSTON EVENING TRANSCRIPT (Ind. Rep.) when it says, "the record of the House of Representatives stamps it unmistakably as the worst house of 20 years. Its presiding officer is helpless, its leaders are feeble in name and for the most part they represent either the worst or the most stupid to be found in either political camp today." To which the LYNN (Va.) NEWS (Dem.) adds that "the senate deserves to come within the sweep of condemnation."

The conduct of the president toward congress is discussed quite generally by the BOSTON EVENING TRANSCRIPT (Ind. Rep.) says, "of what avail is a wise president and a strong cabinet if it is their misfortune to be blocked in many directions by a recalcitrant congress? The country will expect of the president, we venture, a stronger leadership in the coming year." Along this line the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE (Ind. Dem.) says, "The legislative branch that is its greatest weakness is in the not infrequent failure of the executive to give to the legislative branch the leadership it needs." THE NEW YORK WORLD (Dem.) points out "that representative government cannot be carried on by passing the buck," and the HARTFORD DAILY TIMES (Dem.) says, "there are crises from all sides for the president to assume the leadership that should rightfully be his, but he does not reach for the big stick while the molasses jar is handy. The trouble is that the molasses jar does not do the business." THE ROANOKE (Va.) TIMES (Dem.) holds that "Mr. Harding must choose between a fight with congress and being a failure as president."

THE PORTLAND (ME.) MORNING OREGONIAN (Ind. Rep.) after giving credit for the successful conclusion of the arms conference, an item upon which papers of almost every shade of political opinion appear to agree, says, "the president has succeeded in so many and so great things that he certainly has it in him to see success in his management of congress."

As to what the future holds for the president's administration the ROANOKE (Va.) WORLD NEWS (Dem.) avers that "taking the president's first year as a basis for making a forecast, it is altogether probable that the country will see little of spectacular or highly revolutionary legislation during his administration," while the MILWAUKEE NEWS LEADER (Ind. Dem.) taking up the political possibilities says "a decline in the Republican majority there will be, inevitably, but a reversal is not to be desired immediately by democrats. Far better it is to let Republicans struggle on for two years in futile efforts at injudicious compromise. Then, by 1924, the country will be ready to elect a new both out from congress and from the White House."

On the other hand the WASHINGTON POST (Ind.) contends that "if the administration can accomplish as much in each succeeding year of its term it will have triumphantly vindicated the judgment of the great majority of the people." Mr. Harding, it says, "and the DURHAM (N. C.) SUN (Ind.) holds that "it is not unreasonable to say, nor is there anything fulsome in the prediction that the country in the coming year of President Harding's term can go to bed every night without fear of the next dawn."

Russia at Genoa

London.—The attitude of the Little Entente towards the Genoa conference is regarded in official London as important, according to the diplomatic correspondent of the OBSERVER. Dr. Benes, the Czechoslovak prime minister, came to London recently and has explained the point of view of the Czechoslovak government in interviews he has had with Mr. Lloyd George and Lord Curzon.

"Dr. Benes, in conversation, explained to me," says the correspondent, "his views on the Genoa conference as it affects Russia and Germany. His views do not, perhaps wholly coincide with those of Mr. Lloyd George, but have behind them a weight of argument and experience which is making official quarters give them close attention. There is no divergence of view whatever on the objects which have been set before the Genoa conference; for Czechoslovakia, by its progressive economic policy and its actual achievements in political pacification, is already doing in Central Europe what it is hoped Genoa may do for the whole of Europe. Dr. Benes' help at Genoa will be invaluable."

"If the Genoa conference takes place," he said to me, "I am anxious that it should be a success. We are at the beginning of a new period in post-war diplomacy, in which the armistice atmosphere, with its two-camp division, is to give way to a more normal one. Germany and Russia will be, of course, one day reabsorbed into the European system. It is a step of such importance, which will mean so much to Europe for good or bad, that I am anxious that no tactical mistake should jeopardize its success."

"It is a question of method. Take Russia, there is a Czechoslovak mission in Moscow, and a Soviet Mission in Prague. We have repatriated 50,000 Czechs from Russia. We are now negotiating a commercial agreement with Russia designed to regulate the trade regulations we have built up. We are convinced that progressively general European relations with Russia can be reestablished."

"I am just a little afraid that if we are present at Genoa with disagreement between France and Great Britain Russia reconstruction may be arrested."

"Our own idea is that by going in to Russia, working there, gradually building up trade relations first, then human and political relations, Russia may be effectively Europeanized. All I want to utter a warning against the danger of a too precipitate and too hastily reached agreement at Genoa. A Russian signature to a new agreement or treaty will not necessarily lead to an immediate result; what we have to do is to give everything to Russia without any immediate hope of return, and we have to do it carefully, and step by step."

"I cannot conceal my fear that, failing agreement between Great Britain and France, no general European scheme can succeed. I wish that the Genoa program could be clearly thought out in advance from all these points of view, in order to guard against possible failure."

School Problems in Germany

London.—Of great importance to the future of the country are the conditions of the school system now being pressed before the Reichstag by the Prussian Landtag before they come before the Reichstag, according to the Berlin correspondent of the OBSERVER. The hotly-debated question of whether the clauses of the Versailles Treaty are to be taught in detail to the German school children, put forward by the conservatives, has just been successfully quashed by the Socialists. They maintain that any such lessons must of necessity develop either into a hymn of praise to the fallen Monarchy, or by inflaming national imagination, into a constant menace to the peace of the nations. In spite of this, the dream of democracy that seemed so near realization when the Socialist Minister for Education, Haehnrich, took over the reins just after the Revolution, is struggling against actualities too strong for any visions. Religious differences threaten to distort the vast unit that was to form the beginning of all German education, abolition of preparatory schools for the higher institutions, but a uniform groundwork in a Volks Schule in the truest sense of the word.

Here the shadow of Luther has suddenly assumed vast proportions. Hitherto there have been considerable differences between the higher schools only distinguished between the three prevailing faiths—Jewish included—in the actual classes dealing with religious instruction. The Socialists are now demanding the right for schools possessing no religious dogmatic instruction at all. The "bourgeois" demand is that a nation must go to rack and ruin. Hence the unavoidable division, according to the religious atmosphere at home, into what has come to be known as the "Political Right" and the "Political Left" in matters of faith, an affair in Germany today purely class, and very grave degree, their appointments will of necessity depend upon their religious views, and suitable posts will no longer be open to all and sundry, but only to applicants fulfilling the dogmatic demands required.

MATT SCHMIDT & SON

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS FOR MEN

Realism Is "Bunk"

By Alice Roche

Hackensack, N. J.—If after a course of the new realism in plays and books, you have a sort of depressed feeling that life isn't worth living, I wish you could talk with Joseph C. Lincoln.

Of course the famous creator of Cape Cod fiction is so busy writing he hasn't much time for talk. But you can always read his wholesome stories of American life, with their quaint and delicious humor, which is the next best thing.

We have become accustomed to thinking of a realist as a very cynical, pessimistic sort of person. But Joseph C. Lincoln says he is a realist!

Ruddy-skinned, kindly-eyed, genial, voiced, true descendant of the bluff Cape Cod sea captains, he sat there in the library robbing the gloom purveyors of their right to that title.

"I refuse to say that the sordid side of life is realism, any more than the pleasant," says Lincoln. "Both are phases. Life is neither all tears nor all smiles."

"Why, if it were really true that life is as sordid and ugly, as hopeless as the so-called realists would have us believe, we might just as well finish it now."

"Can sordidness ever become a popular success?"

"We have been swept over by a wave of it," he replied, "but both in literature and on the stage it is beginning to work itself out."

"We have examples of sordid books being tremendous successes occasionally. 'Main Street' is a remarkably photographic book of a phase of small town life, for example. It is a well-written book, too—but it is unfair to say it is small town life. It is only a phase and, thank goodness, there are other phases, or no one could live in small towns."

"Lincoln lives in Cape Cod in the summer and 'winters' in Hackensack, where he has an old house filled with rare antique furniture, which is his hobby."

He has written 22 best sellers, and has made a commercial success out of decency!

"It wouldn't interest me to write a depressing book," he said. "Unless one enjoys a work and believes it himself, he can't convince a reader. And I believe it is only fair to be as happy about life as possible."

"Which," he said emphatically, "does not mean I approve of the saccharine, super-glued, paper doll character books any more than I do of the gloom dispensers. Real life is pretty interesting if we view it from all angles and accentuate the best ones."

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lake Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."—Mrs. M. SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich. There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing its merit. If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound?

IRISH ARMY WILL HAVE GREEN HATS

Former "Gangsters" Soon Will Be Mustered in as Army of Free State

Special to The Post-Crescent
Dublin—A half dozen young men in unpressed civilian clothes and leather leggings—some even wearing derby hats—patrolling the sidewalk before the City Hall, rifle on shoulder, mark the death and birth respectively of the era of war and peace in Ireland.

They are the "murder gangsters," the "assassins" and "ruffians" who won for Ireland the recently signed treaty of peace—the City Hall guard of the Dublin brigade, Irish Republican army.

They are also part of the nucleus from which will be recruited the new Free State of from 20,000 to 30,000 men that Ireland will equip under the treaty.

Like their leaders, they are rather disappointing to anyone who has read about them and their exploits. They are very much like the ordinary American big or small town youth, except that they don't have their clothes pressed or their hair cut so often.

Within a few weeks, Minister of Defense Mulcahy plans to have enough uniforms for all I. R. A. men on active service. They will be identical with the few uniform now in existence—weather, of the same pattern as those the British and American armies for enlisted men and of the British leather leggings and felt hats, similar in pattern to the campaign hats in the American army, but green in color and with one side turned up and fastened with a crest—now that of the Republic, later probably that of the Free State.

The army probably will be equipped with British service rifles and pistols, with which most of the men are more or less familiar.

Walked Fifty Miles To Get Citizen Papers

Hans Erbs walked 50 miles Tuesday to be admitted to citizenship at Sturgeon Bay. George N. Danielson, United States naturalization examiner, who was an Appleton visitor Thursday, attended the hearing and said that Erbs lived at Detroit Harbor and undertook his long walk because there was no railway service between the two points and because the roads were blocked with snow. He was 15 hours in making the trip to the county seat. Judge Graessle complimented him on making such an effort to become a citizen.

WILL NEVER MIX WITH YELLOW RACE

Scientist Says Whites and Chinese or Japanese Are Permanently Separated

Washington.—Instinct and prejudice create a barrier to any ultimate blending of the white and yellow races which can never be overcome, according to Ales Hrdlicka, chief anthropologist of the Smithsonian Institution.

"There is no physiological or strictly anthropological barrier to a merging of these races, as has sometimes been suggested," said Hrdlicka. "The barrier is rather psychophysical."

"But so deeply is this intrenched that it creates a separation of the races almost as effectively as would a physiological inhibition."

"Strange to say, however, the instinct which prevents any crossing of the white race with the yellow is less active between whites and Chinese than between whites and Japanese. This although there is a somewhat greater strain of Mongolian stock in a Chinaman than in a Jap."

"Among the Japanese, prejudice seems to be the controlling factor against any mixing of races. The average of Japanese marriages with white women are unhappy. The Japanese, whether in marriage or immigration, is never assimilated."

"That is the source of Japan's troubles over elbow room in the Orient. There is plenty of room for Japanese immigrants in Siberia, Korea, Mongolia, if they would emigrate and blend themselves with the peoples of the lands to which they go. But they refuse to do this."

BEDS OF LAKES ARE PUBLIC PROPERTY

Islands Offered Resorters by State Have Objectionable Intrusion Feature

Special to The Post-Crescent
Madison—You can play in anyone's lake this year.

Decision of the Wisconsin supreme court in several cases involving the bottom of the lakes of the state, has ruled that the "bed of the lake" is public property and as such, cannot be fenced off, or reserved for private use. Attorney General William J. Morgan told the United Press.

The "bed of the lake" extends up to the ordinary high-water mark so there is nearly always enough dry land to sun oneself on.

This legal point was given by Morgan in discussion of a recent statement of the state conservation commission, that 600 small islands in the northern part of the state were for lease for 5-year periods, as private pleasure resorts.

MAY INTRUDE
The trouble with them is, from this legal interpretation, that any intruder who wishes to invade your privacy by camping on the "bed of the lake," including your diving pier, or stretch of beach extending up to the ordinary high-water mark, is at liberty to do so.

The same legal point is also the crux of a case to come before the April term of the state supreme court, which was brought by the state against two residents of Lakeside drive in Milwaukee, who fenced in with barbed wire, a pier built into Lake Michigan from their lakeside residence. The state's suit was for the purpose of compelling the removal of the fence on the pier, by which promiscuous swimmers and boatmen were kept away from the pier. The case was decided against the owners of the pier, Robert and Joseph Uchlein, by the Milwaukee circuit court, and was then appealed to the high state court.

Special to The Post-Crescent
New London. — The group of Camp Fire girls of which Miss Isabelle Mayroff is guardian, has an interesting display in the window of Trayser drug store, in observance of national camp fire week. Honor beads in each of seven appropriate colors are awarded the girls for accomplishment of stipulated tasks or attainment of certain standards in the seven crafts of the camp fire, namely: home craft, health craft, handicraft, bandcraft, native lore, business and patriotism. The display shows samples of various forms of home craft and handicraft, including sewing, embroidery, bead work, etc., and is illustrative of the practical value of the Camp Fire organization. Several of the ceremonial dresses with their bead and embroidery trimmings, all made by the girls themselves are displayed. A large card naming the seven points of the Camp Fire law, occupies the center of the window. The Camp Fire group includes the following members: Alice Werner, May Knapstein, Helen La Marche, Mary Dornbach, Ruth DeJano, Bernadine Kische, Victoria Spencer, Beatrice Foley, Dorothy Haskell, Marie Metlock, and Margaret Hetzer. END REHEARSALS FOR H. S. OPERETTA

"The Hawaiian Pirates" Will Be Presented in Auditorium Friday Evening

Kaukauna. — Final rehearsals for the high school operetta, "The Hawaiian Pirates" to be presented Friday evening in the city auditorium, were held Wednesday night. The play is expected to eclipse last year's presentation, "The Windmills of Holland." Seats for the operetta, which opened at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at Brauer drug store on the north side and at Kaukauna Drug Co. store on the south side. The cast of characters has been chosen by Miss Edna Ruff, supervisor of music in the Kaukauna schools and director for the operetta. She has been assisted by several members of the faculty. John Hale, dressed as a pirate chief, will prove that even a lawless creature can succumb to the charms of a woman and fall desperately in love with her. The woman in the case is Miss Olive Johnson who takes the part of Miss Primer, a governess in a girls' school in Hawaii. Dorothy Dear, in reality Miss Evelyn Jahress, is in Hawaii with her father who is managing a sugar plantation. The girl loves an officer on a United States cruiser and because of the strict rules of the government, she finds it hard to arrange a meeting with her lover when he finds he is to visit her. John Parent takes the part of Billy Wood, the marine. Mildred Kern, Marie Kurz, Violet Redman and Lucille Dietzler are leading Hawaiian girls. Prudence Hale, one of the "real" pirates, is nicknamed "Scary." The pirate band includes Milton Metz, Leo Haessly, Elmer Grimmer, Edward Ludtke, Branzel Van Lieshout, Louis Miller, Lloyd McCarty and Carl Hansen. The Hawaiian group consists of Dorothy Smith, Wilma Klumb, Elizabeth Schussman, Wilma Hohmann, Ella Denzer, Mildred Feller, Louise Kurz, Gertrude Ditter and Anna Jaekels. MAY ASK BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS FOR CITY NEXT MONTH

Agitation is Abroad to Combine Committee Activities Under One Head

Kaukauna. — Under the general charter law, passed by the state legislature and which went into effect Jan. 1, Wisconsin cities are granted a board of public works, but by a two-thirds vote of the common council the board may be either accepted or rejected. For several years some people in this city have felt the need of a unified system of carrying on public improvements. The question was discussed pro and con at the last regular meeting of the council and it is probable a resolution will be presented and acted upon at the next meeting in April. Few Kaukaunites, besides those who are directly active, appear to know much about the board of public works and its function. MAKEUP OF BOARD The board of public works in this city would consist of the city attorney, the city clerk, the city engineer, two aldermen, one from each side of the river and the mayor, ex officio. The new board would eliminate from the city government the present sewer committee, the north side street committee, the public grounds and buildings committee and the old sewer commission. Under the new plan each body worked independently and as a result the maximum amount of work was not accomplished. There will be a superintendent of streets on each side of the river, independent commissioners and who form the city board of public works. The board will be in sole charge of the work of public works. The board then will be responsible to the council for expenditures and accomplishments. The time element is another feature in favor of the proposed board. Considerable loss of time was incurred at meetings of the council in which the bills and reports of all the public improvement committees had to be read and acted upon. With

ZWICK TRAINING FOR BOUT IN GREEN BAY SOON

Kaukauna. — Once again Jack Zwick, local boxer is training in preparation of a bout in Green Bay on Saturday, March 24. Drywiski, whom he was scheduled to meet in an eight-round argument in Green Bay on March 9, has agreed to a fight. The last scrap was called off when the storm prevented the participants from getting to Green Bay. The main bout will be between Jimmie Nuss of DePere and Comiskey of St. Paul. Zwick will go six rounds in a semiwindup with Drywiski. The Kaukaunite has thoroughly recovered from the illness which forced him to cancel his last date.

Social Items

Kaukauna. — Mrs. Mary Wahlers, for the last 10 years recorder of local union camp No. 2365, Royal Neighbors of America, has been presented a gold medal for faithful service. The medal was presented by the supreme recorder of the Royal Neighbors of Rock Island, Ill. There will be regular communication of Kaukauna Masonic Lodge No. 233 at 7:30 Monday evening in Muschall hall. Work in the master mason degree will be exemplified. The Misses Margaret Dettman and Lorraine Raddor were in Appleton Wednesday. A meeting of the Womens Christian Temperance union will be held at 2:30 Friday afternoon in the public library. Mrs. J. Lefevre is spending a few days in Milwaukee.

SOO LINE EQUIPS ITS STATION WITH SIGNS

The Soo passenger depot on west College-ave. was provided with two handsome signs Wednesday with which appear the word "Appleton" which have been suspended on each end of the depot platform. A large sign on which appears "Soo Freight Depot" has been placed on the roof of that building. The signs were put up by a building and bridge crew of the Soo Line which has been in Appleton for several days making improvements to the company's property.

Clean Streets The street department is planning to clean College-ave. and intersecting streets as soon conditions warrant. While the pavements are dry in some places in other places the ice is several inches deep.

PUT NAME INSIDE PARCEL POST MAIL

Postmaster Urges Precaution to Stop Loss by Inability to Deliver Parcels

How many people ever put their name and address inside a package when sending it by parcel post? Postmaster Gustave Keller is warning. This is one of the cardinal rules of proper mailing but reports from dead letter offices show that a negligible percentage of all undelivered parcels contain the name or address of the sender. It frequently happens that through improper wrapping the outside address and return address are torn off and cannot be located. The department then has no alternative but to send the package to a dead mail center. "Every package should contain a slip on which appears the name and address of the sender and the name and address of the person to whom package is addressed. No other writing is permissible unless first class postage is paid. This precaution by persons mailing packages would save thousands of dollars in lost packages every year," Mr. Keller said.

To Build Resort A new pleasure resort with a dance hall in connection is to be built on the Appleton-Menasha rd. this spring just beyond the city limits of Appleton. Plans for the building have been completed and an order placed for the material, but the name of the owner and the location of the site has not been made public.

DYE FADED WRAP SKIRT, DRESS IN "DIAMOND DYES"

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint her old worn, faded things new. Even if she has never dyed before she can put a rich, fadeless color into shabby skirts, dresses, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, draperies, hangings, everything. Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed. Just tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. Diamond Dyes never streak, spot, fade, or run. adv.

PEOPLE EAGER TO HEAR OF APPLETON

Booklets Sent Out by Chamber of Commerce Are Heard from by Traveler

The booklets describing Appleton's residential, educational and industrial advantages issued by the chamber of commerce and mailed to all parts of the country are doing more to advertise the city than members of that organization are aware, according to a local manufacturer who has lately returned from an extended business trip through the east and Canada. "You must live in a very beautiful and progressive city," said one of the larger manufacturers while reaching for the booklet in a convenient pigeon-hole in his desk. "I received this booklet some time ago," he said "and have been very much interested in it."

A series of questions concerning the paper industry, Lawrence college, transportation facilities, tourist and camping provisions, and pleasure resorts was then put to him. Even in Hamilton, Ontario, where the Appleton man least expected to find anyone who knew anything about this city, a business man wanted to know all about Appleton after showing the booklet which he kept in a private drawer in his desk.

The local manufacturer said there is a feeling among eastern manufacturers that business is improving, but he found it still in a deplorable condition in most of the cities of New England, especially where small arms and ammunition are manufactured. During the war the cities were populated with a large foreign element, which is now idle and without means of support.

Irene Bordoni Shows Her Ability As Stage Artist In Clever French Play

Star Not Only is Beautiful But She is Intelligent—Play Has Been Carefully Translated and Is Going Big on Broadway.

A thing of beauty may be a joy forever, according to Keats, but I prefer mine with a few other embellishments—say, intelligence for example.

Of course I hold the old idea that a beautiful woman doesn't need to be clever—even if she could be—is all wrong.

Beauty of face and body is a pretty good reason for including beauty of intelligence.

All of which leads up to the reason why all of you who share my belief that mere beauty isn't the sole reason of being should lose no time in getting from where you are to the Lyceum to see Irene Bordoni in "The French Doll."

Miss Bordoni is beautiful, she has chic, she has charm, and—Oh Joy!—she has intelligence. In her new play, produced by E. Ray Goetz, she reveals so rare and beautiful a quality in the few touches of emotional acting that fall her way—as to place an entirely new valuation upon this young artist.

"The French Doll" is an importation straight from Paris. Fortunately the fate that has befallen so many other French plays at the hands of translators and adapters has been mercifully spared this comedy.

This all too rare happening is due to the skill and craftsmanship of A. E. Thomas who has adapted the comedy from the original Paul Armand and Marcel Gerbidoon.

The story itself, that of the money mad family, scheming to marry their exquisite daughter to some rich man, might fall hopelessly into a sea of mediocrity were it not for the skill, the keen sense for contrasts displayed by Thomas.

We are spared, for instance, that incomprehensible blunder and affront to one's intelligence—still going good in our best dramatic circles—of having some of the characters talk with an accent, though conversing in their native tongue on their native heath.

Thomas, in bringing his French family to New York and Palm Beach gives consistency to the accent effect. The contrast too of the gallic types against the American are perfectly brought out by employing for these parts French actors. The rugged bluff qualities of the self-made American so splendidly portrayed by Thurston Hall—stand out in real and creditable contrast against such a psychological background. Edna Hubbard as the young American flapper, too, is an excellent foil to the French girl.

Edouard Durand does an exceptionally good portrayal of the excitable and scheming papa who pursues the "fish" with the bait of his lovely daughter.

The chief charm, of course, of "The French Doll" is Irene Bordoni.

In this entertaining play, which starts off a bit haltingly, but which gets up full speed and reaches a happy ending through amusing, disturbing and plaintive happenings, she displays a rarely delicate sense of values.

Fortunately she has opportunity for two songs, "When Eyes Meet Eyes" and "Do It Again." I doubt if there is any artist on the stage today who could sing the latter and make it so joyously delightful instead of unpleasantly suggestive.

Miss Bordoni's costumes are so ravishing they could not be described in a brief review.

For sheer enjoyment "The French Doll" is one of the best offerings of the season.

DIDN'T LIKE BEING A PRINCESS SO SHE BECOMES PLAIN AMERICAN AGAIN

MISS DOROTHY DEACON

Rome—Will the moving finger of romance ever cease writing disillusion in the story of the Deacon family?

What will be the next chapter in the lives of those beautiful American—the Deacon girls?

The Sacred Rota tribunal of the Vatican recently annulled the marriage of Prince Albert Radziwill to Dorothy Deacon.

Just as Gladys Deacon has become the Duchess of Marlborough, Dorothy discards her title of princess and becomes a plain Miss Deacon again.

OPPOSED MATCH

Princess Radziwill, mother of Prince Albert, always opposed the match. Another who opposed it is said to have been the beautiful 17-year-old Dorothy, herself. But Prince Albert was madly infatuated.

Dorothy Deacon, youngest of four beautiful girls, was a small child when her mother appeared one night and took her away from the French convent where she and her sister were being educated. The girl scarcely understood the tragedy which had befallen her.

Her father, Edward Parker Deacon, son of the distinguished Boston family, had shot and killed M. Abille, a Frenchman, reported to be in love with his beautiful wife.

All the Deacon girls chose to go with their mother, who took the name of Mrs. Florence Baldwin, being a daughter of the richest American naval officer—later Admiral Baldwin. In the Borgheze palace at Rome, and in the decaying magnificence of the Farnese palace at Caprarola "Dolly" Deacon was given

Household Hints

FATHER OF 36 ASKS AID King's Lynn, Eng. — Declaring he was the father of 36 children, a bricklayer appeared before the board of guardians here for relief. He said he was married at 17 and had 25 children by his first wife and 11 by his second.

PLAN "LARGEST" HALL London — What is planned as the world's largest auditorium, seating 50,000 to 100,000 people, will be constructed here. The site already has been bought for nearly $5,000,000. The building it is believed, will cost another $5,000,000.

FITTINGS USED AS FUEL Lerwick, Shetland Islands — The Norwegian steamer Senut, with a cargo of herring from Iceland, has reached here with her fittings gone. The wood had to be burned when the ship was held up by a storm after her coal gave out.

ample opportunity to imbibe the princely spirit.

Yet when Roman society became agog over the determination, as they said, of Mrs. Florence Baldwin, to marry Dorothy to the infatuated prince—Dorothy said "No."

Once in London the marriage guests had to leave the church disappointed, but a week later Dorothy appeared at the ceremony took place.

SHOCKED NOBILITY Princess Radziwill was shocked at the marriage, shocked at the unprincely conduct of the young American girl. For Dorothy's offenses were that she whistled in those stately halls.

Think of it! Then she shocked Roman nobility by appearing at a ball in a small chaperon drawn by two leopards!

Over a year ago Mrs. Florence Baldwin died, and as though to give credence to the rumour that she had urged Dorothy into the marriage the suit for annulment was instituted.

Rumor has it that Dorothy was just bored at being a princess.

Polly and Paul--and Paris Chapter 62—The Wonderful Thought

BY ZOE BECKLEY

Paul snapped off the light and walked the room, hoping always that she would open the door and come flying into his arms.

It was not doubt of her that worried him—though why she would not tell him about the Barry incident he could not make out. And why did the concierge fabricate that silly thing about Polly being home so early every night? No—no, his mind refused to harbor doubt of Polly. It was distress at their first real quarrel that stung and tormented him. How could Polly allow it to happen—unless there were something to hide? Yet that was absurd. The whole thing was absurd.

But Polly had no sleep. She wanted to open the door. She wanted to talk. She longed for the comfort of Paul's presence and the relief of laughing with him over the whole affair. But before she could reach the point of yielding anger choked her—the thought of Paul listening to Violet, to Mme. Dubois' gratuitous deception, born of her French idea that it is better to cover things up than risk misunderstanding. So the night wore on with the two further separated by that closed door than as if oceans lay between them.

By morning Polly felt really ill. Her head throbbed and she was hot and cold by turns. She must get a drink of water. She crawled out of bed and unlocked the door. There was no one in the other room. On the table lay a note.

"I won't disturb you," he wrote. "I have said all I can. Women's ways are strange ways. I cannot hope to fathom them."

She dropped it into the wastebasket, and steadied herself by the table edge, fighting off the dizziness that made her gasp and close her eyes.

The sound of the concierge's key in the lock made Polly lift a fearful face. Mme. Dubois, with a tray of hot coffee, came beaming toward her.

"But—Ah, ma pauvre chérie!" Her face went grave at sight of the distressed figure in the bed and her voice was as expressive as only a French voice can be. "What is it, little one? You can tell your old friend here. But first drink this."

At the motherly tone Polly's tears were loosed afresh. She leaned against the kind arm and sobbed. Madame examined attentively the pale face, the dark-ringed eyes, the feverish lips.

"Tell me, my birding, all that troubles you—!" And, without realizing, Polly did tell. The story flowed forth with the abandon of an ice-bound brook in spring.

"I was a fool, a stupid old fool!" cried Mme. Dubois, pounding her work-worn hands together. "But I shall tell him, and you shall also. You can easily explain it all away!"

"No!" Polly's eyes shone again feverishly. "He doubted me, he—"

The older woman stopped her gently. "Listen, my child, and be tranquil. I believe—Come—have you not something else to tell him also?"

Women have a way of saying things that other women understand. . . . The gentle tone, the wise, kind look, the sympathy in the eyes—Polly suddenly comprehended, and was silent while a tremendous thought engulfed her. Things unheeded came now in a rush of realization.

"I wonder—I wonder—" she whispered, holding tight to the concierge's hand.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is Archaic. It's pronounced—ar-kay-jek, with accent on the second syllable. It means—old, fashioned, antique, out of date, belonging to a past age. It comes from Greek—"archaios," old-fashioned. It's used like this—"Many people like to fill their homes with archaic furniture."

Boy's Expense Is More Than Boss's Wages

Syracuse, N. Y.—Justin James Sanford, 14, is the world's office boy de luxe.

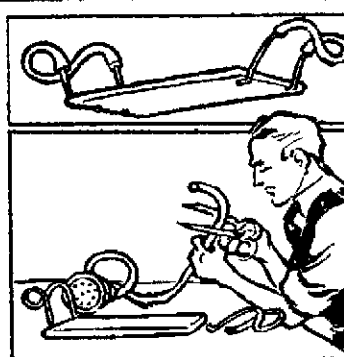

SANFORD

Heir to a $350,000 interest in the famous Dey o n a (M)- race-track and recipient of an income of $2,000 a year and many expense allowances. Justin daily runs errands as office boy of a commercial organization here.

All because the will of his father, the late Bill Sanford, race track magnate, provides he shall work two years before he becomes of age.

Justin lives in an expensive suite at a local hotel. His daily expenses are greater than the salaries of many who "boss" him at the office.

SPARE TIME JOBS FOR FATHER

Don't throw away the rubber hose that wears out at places, and is taken off the hot water bottle. There are several uses for small pieces of rubber hoses. For instance, put it on the hanger parts of the soap disk that fits over the side of the bath tub, or on the hanger parts of the bath tub seat. This will prevent marring.

Rhubarb Dishes

HERE are many delicious ways to prepare rhubarb for the table. Use it often in the early spring, but try to vary the way of serving it to prevent monotony.

If you serve stewed rhubarb for breakfast do not serve a cereal. A rhubarb dessert is especially good after a fish dinner.

These seven rhubarb rules are simple and economical. Try 'em!

STEWED RHUBARB

Wash and peel rhubarb. Cut in inch lengths. Put in a colander and pour boiling water through it. Drain and put in stew pan with a very little water. Cook until tender when pierced with a silver fork.

Put one cup of granulated sugar for every two cups of stewed rhubarb in a bowl and pour the boiling rhubarb over the sugar. Stir with fork until sugar is dissolved. Serve cold for breakfast.

BAKED RHUBARB PUDDING

Two cups stewed and sweetened rhubarb, 1 cup bread crumbs, 2 table spoons butter, 1 egg.

Add butter and well beaten egg to rhubarb. Mix well. Put a layer of bread crumbs in a well buttered baking dish. Add rhubarb. Cover with remaining crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven.

Cover the dish with buttered paper for the first 20 minutes of baking to prevent the top from becoming too brown.

RHUBARB MARSHMALLOW PUDDING

Two cups diced rhubarb, 1 cup chopped dates, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup sugar, marshmallows.

Put rhubarb in colander and pour boiling water through it. Drain and add dates. Put in stew pan with just enough water to prevent burning. Cook 10 minutes and remove from the fire. Add sugar, bread crumbs and butter.

If the rhubarb is too dry add enough water to absorb the crumbs. Turn into a buttered pudding dish. Cover with marshmallows cut in quarters. Bake in a slow oven until the marshmallows begin to melt. Then increase the heat and brown quickly. Serve warm.

RHUBARB MERINGUE PIE

Two and one-half cups finely cut rhubarb, 2 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 3 tablepoons water, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Pour boiling water over rhubarb and let stand five minutes. Drain. Mix and sift flour and sugar and stir into rhubarb. Beat yolks of eggs till thick and lemon colored with water. Beat in salt. Add butter. Turn into a pie dish lined with unbaked pie crust and bake in a moderate oven.

When the crust is baked and the rhubarb tender remove from oven and cover with meringue made with the whites of the eggs beaten till stiff and dry with four tablepoons of sugar. Brown in a hot oven.

RHUBARB TAPIOCA

One-half cup pearl tapioca, 2 cups diced rhubarb, 1 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Soak tapioca over night in cold water to cover. Drain. Put in double boiler with one cup boiling water and salt. Cook until water is absorbed. Peel rhubarb and cut in small dice. Add to tapioca with the sugar. Mix well and turn into a buttered baking dish.

Bake until tapioca is clear. The juice from the rhubarb should be absorbed by the tapioca.

RHUBARB JELLY

One cup prunes, 2 cups rhubarb, 1 cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 orange, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, ¼ cup cold water.

Wash prunes and put to soak in two cups cold water. Soak an hour. Cook in the same water till tender. Skim out prunes and add diced rhubarb. Cook till tender but not mushy. Remove stones from prunes.

When rhubarb is tender, add salt and sugar and remove from the fire. Add juice and grated rind of orange. Soak gelatine in cold water 15 minutes. Stir into hot rhubarb mixture. Add stoned and chopped prunes and turn into a mold to chill.

"Gee, Mother, this is good"

"Can I have Johnston Graham Crackers every morning?"

And then he started to eat a real breakfast. To eat it with a relish. It was the kind of a breakfast growing children need—the whole wheat of Johnston Graham Crackers and good, rich milk—the kind of a breakfast physicians prescribe for growing children and insist on in hospitals for cases of undernourishment.

Try this appetizing, nourishing and yet inexpensive dish yourself, for breakfast or lunch. Then you won't blame the kiddies for liking it. Ask your grocer for a pound or package of Johnston Graham Crackers today.

Recipe for Johnston's Graham Cracker Cream Tart

Prepare 12 Johnston's Graham Crackers with double bag of meringue on each cracker (use rubber bag with small end cracker tube). Bake in very moderate oven for about 20 minutes, being careful not to crisp crackers too much.

FILLING 1½ cups milk 2 tablepoonsful cornstarch 2 tablepoonsful sugar 2 egg yolks 1 teaspoon vanilla

Boil above ingredients in double boiler—when cool fill into tarts and decorate with cherry. Above filling sufficient for 12 tarts. Tarts can also be filled with fresh fruits topped with whipped cream.

Adventures of the Twins

Oliver Roberts Barton

The Searchers There stood two balloons waiting for the apple-tree elevator to stop. Nick pulled the brake and the little car slowed down, then stood still. The balloons were the first things that the Twins and Buskins beheld as they stepped out into this strange country in the air.

"Hello," said the round, jolly-looking fellows. "Welcome to the Land of Lost Balloons!"

"Oh!" cried Nancy. "Is this where all the lost balloons come to?" Nick and I have always wondered."

"Yes," declared Nick. "Only yesterday Nancy and I lost two balloons. We'd been to a circus and Mother bought us each a beauty. We tied 'em together just for fun and first thing I did was to let them go."

"They made a straight line for the sky and the last we saw of them they were away over the tops of the blue mountains."

"Yes, I know," nodded the red balloon, "and we were sorry to leave you, but you'd had enough fun with us for ten cents—I mean for ten minutes—and we had work to do here. Besides, you were squeezing me so hard I'd surely have burst, and the young lady dragged Blue Junior here over sharp stones until he, too, nearly blew up."

You may imagine how amazed Nancy and Nick were at this speech. "Are—are you our balloons?" asked Nick.

"No," answered the blue balloon this time. "but we were. We are searchers now. We have to search everyone who comes to our country."

"They search people who take things?" We didn't take anything!" declared Nancy.

"They search folks for weapons, too," answered the balloon, with dignity. "Why, I've nothing but an air-gun and it's down home," declared Nick. "We're speaking of pins," answered the other.

Gloss and Softness Follow

There is no complaint of dry hair, or brittle hair, or harsh, unruly hair from those who shampoo with Palmolive. Those who accepted the free 15-cent trial bottle know this.

The combination of palm and olive oils imparts beautiful gloss and softness—every strand shines, every hair is silky in texture.

Once you use Palmolive Shampoo no other satisfies. Because no other contains these costly oriental oils famous since the days of ancient Egypt for their beautifying qualities.

What they do

The softening effects of olive oil are responsible for the lovely gloss and softness. It produces the mildest, most penetrating of lathers, which is given body and richness by the blending with palm oil.

This lather is far more than a surface cleanser. It enters every root and hair cell, and purges them from dirt, oil and dandruff.

Yet this hair which is so thoroughly cleansed isn't dry, harsh or brittle. The soothing action of palm and olive oil keeps it soft and glossy.

Don't neglect dandruff

Even the healthiest scalps secrete a moderate amount of dandruff, which doctors call seborrhea and charge with most hair troubles.

It is harmless enough if, when you shampoo, it is thoroughly washed away.

But ordinary shampooing doesn't affect the dry, oily, scales which withstand most cleansing. They accumulate until the hair cells are clogged.

This clogging prevents proper nutrition and your hair begins to come out. This is the danger signal.

The softening, penetrating lather produced by the blend of palm and olive oils penetrates the formation of scales, loosening and dislodging them from hair roots and scalp.

You need never fear dandruff if you shampoo with Palmolive.

If you didn't get the free 15-cent trial bottle of Palmolive Shampoo, fill out and mail this coupon to the Palmolive Company. We will gladly mail it, that you may learn the results which follow even the first Palmolive Shampoo.

engineer the council instructed E. L.
Williams, city clerk, to advertise for bids for from four to six cars of road has recommended to the council that six cars be purchased this year.

A report from George P. McGillan, fire chief, for the nine months ending on March 1, was submitted to the council. The report stated that the fire department had responded to 109 fire alarms and 14 pulmonary calls dur-

lan recommended that nine men be added

rence st., between Mason st. and Douglass st. was granted.

the last before the city election.

LOCAL SPORTSMEN BECOME WRITERS

State Game Publication Contains Articles by Several Appleton Men

Appleton sportsmen have just received the 32 page annual issued by the Wisconsin Game Protection association, a number of articles in which were written by Appleton people.

Mark Catlin contributed an article on the Hungarian partridge in which he urges that large numbers of these birds be raised by Wisconsin farmers or others who have facilities with which to give them proper care.

An article entitled, "Sportsmen of Lake and Stream—Marion" written by A. L. Wolfe of Appleton, urges sportsmen to be sportsmen as well as fishermen. Grant Phillips of Appleton presents an article on lake trout which describes the fish and tells how they may best be caught.

A foreword and introduction together with the financial report of the organization occupies the first page of the booklet. This was written and compiled by the secretary and treasurer, M. A. Schwab of Appleton. This is followed by the constitution and bylaws of the association and the resolutions adopted at its meeting in Madison last fall.

Liberal advertising has been done in the annual by concerns throughout the state, and particularly by those in the Fox River valley. Two full pages contain advertisements from Appleton Chamber of Commerce. One tells why people live in Appleton and other depicts of Appleton as the gateway to the tourist's paradise.

FIRST TEST REVEALS COW IS HIGH EARNER

Aggie Pontiac Countess, a 4 yearduced 500.9 pounds of milk testing 4 per cent and yielding a little more than 25.08 pounds of butter. This record is highly gratifying to its owners for the reason that it is the first time they have attempted any official tests.

TRUCK MIRED TO WEEKS IS BROUGHT TO CITY

The United Consumers Corporation is again in possession of its motor truck which was stuck in a snow drift near McCarty's crossing between Kaukauna and DePere since Jan. 4. It was brought home Tuesday under its own power by Carl Foss and William Mueller, who had no difficulty in making the trip. At the time it got stalled nomonic are in Appleton, having been called here by the illness of their daughter Miss Marjorie who suffered an acute attack of appendicitis and submitted to an operation Tuesday in St. Elizabeth hospital.

Just recently Mr. and Mrs. Ingraham made a hurried trip to Chicago
when they received word that Miss Ingraham was about to submit to an operation. When they reached there the attack had passed and they returned home. In the meantime the girl came to Appleton to visit friends and was taken with another attack while here. She is attending school in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingraham formerly lived in Appleton. Mr. Ingraham was

FOUND ANIMAL WAS STRAY BLACK FOX

"See if you can hit that dog asleep up there," said two Kimberly boys to William Dohr, proprietor of Kimberly hotel, who upon looking in the direction indicated saw a black bunch of fur on one of the pulpwood piles at which the boys had been aiming their slingshots.

The landlord recognized the object
as a black fox with he had been playing hide-and seek for two days. He slipped home and got his rifle and soon had the animal in his possession.

The skin of a black fox is valued at several hundred dollars and Mr. Dohr brought his prize to Appleton Thursday to consult a furrier as to its disposal. The fox had been seen at Kimberly for several days before it was captured.

YOUR MOTHER AND MINE KNEW THE VALUE OF COD LIVER OIL AND IRON

Well do I remember how my mother used to make me take the nasty tasting Cod Liver oil — how I hated it — but it was good medicine.

For a hundred years the medicinal elements contained in the cod's liver and oil have been regarded as the safest and best strength and body building medicinal agents known.

Many people however — especially children — cannot take it because of the nauseating oil which upsets the stomach.

In Vinol we now get all the medicinal value of cod liver oil and emulsions in a delicious tasting form and entirely free from grease and oil — children love to take it and people with weak stomachs find it agrees with them perfectly — therefore it is better.

If you are run down, weak, losing weight, nervous, take Vinol. Your money will be returned if it does not help you.

If you have a stubborn cough or cold take Vinol. Your money back if it does not help you.

If you have a delicate child, give it Vinol. It has helped thousands of children in this State. If it does not help yours, your money will be returned.

For feeble, old people there is nothing in the world so successful as Vinol to sustain strength and prevent colds. It builds them up, and keeps them up. Money cannot buy a better medicine.

Read the wonderful testimonials we are publishing in this paper almost every day, then get a bottle of Vinol on our guarantee. — Schlitz Bros. Co.

PAT CROWE TELLS HOW TO PROTECT YOUTH FROM EVIL

Former Criminal Believes Different Reform Methods Should Be Employed

New York. — "Prevent crime, instead of punishing it," is the motto of Pat Crowe, a former criminal who has become a reformed man. It is Pat Crowe, notorious as a kidnaper, train robber, bank looter and diamond thief.

As kidnaper of young Edward G. Bremer, Crowe was rewarded with $50,000, dead or alive. Today he is a mild-mannered, white-haired man of 52, just come from Washington where he placed before President Harding a plan for legislation for preventing crime and conserving the nation's manpower.

To put this plan into effect is his life's dream.

"I've been a general all around hell raiser," said Crowe. "I have served time in prison. I have been through the criminal game, with more success than most criminals obtain. But for the last 15 years I've gone straight. I'm trying to help the boys of today avoid the pitfalls that I stumbled into."

Vocational training of the country's youth is the ex-convict's prescription for crime prevention.

"Congress can solve the nation's greatest problem," Crowe said, "by turning waste and barren land into a million farms of 40 acres each and selling them on a 50 year installment payment plan to citizens. The appeal should be primarily to young men, an opportunity also should be given to war veterans to take up land."

"My idea is to carve out five federal reservations in different parts of the country. Here would be community centers for the education of the holders of surrounding farms. There should be vocational training schools, and other centers of 10-acre plots for poultry raising."

"It would be possible under these conditions for some modified system of military training to be established."

Crowe also proposes legislation establishing a chain of federal sanitariums for the treatment of narcotic drug addicts.

NEED CHANCE

"Equality of opportunity is what the youth of America needs most," he says. "Too much crime is due to environment, probably 75 per cent of it. Each year some 400,000 persons are committed to the prisons or reformatories of America, more than 100,000 of them neglected youths."

"State reformatories do not reform. The boy comes out a worse rascal than a better citizen. There is a stigma on his reputation that follows him to the grave and, looking forward to a desert life before him, he naturally turns to crime."

"Vocational training and the proper use of land now held as valueless will not only put ambitious youth on a common level, but will create a healthy environment."

Crowe says that waste land can be drained or irrigated for $100 an acre. It would mean a total cost of $4,000,000, but he declares the land would be worth twice that much after improvement.

"When you think of the cost," says Crowe, "remember that the cost of crime in this country is estimated at not less than $3,600,000,000 annually."

FOOD, CLOTHING SHELTER, BEAUTY

In that order the needs of human beings generally are listed. When the first three needs are reasonably satisfied, the fourth looms large.

Flower gardens are turned to by millions to help in making their surroundings pleasing to the eye. Annual flower plants are particularly useful to home gardeners because many of them flower at a time of the year when there are few other blooms.

The Department of Agriculture has prepared a booklet going thoroughly into the subject of just such flowers. It describes their uses, gives a great deal of suggestions, and for convenience to the gardener in laying out his plants, groups these annuals which grow to various heights.

This is a free Government publication. Any of our readers may secure a copy by filling out the coupon below, enclosing two cents in stamps to pay return postage and a free copy of the booklet "Annual Flowering Plants."

TURN SOUND INTO SIGHT FOR BLIND

Invention of Optophone Means Sightless Can Read Books and Magazines

Jersey City, N. J.—Blind persons can now read books and magazines and newspapers.

Letters and words are translated into light. The light is translated into sound. And—presto!—the sound comes through the receivers of the optophone into the reader's ears. Or, with a radio amplifier, a roomful of blind persons can hear what is being read.

Experiments with the optophone, just completed by the Federated Engineers Development Corporation laboratories, makes possible the teaching of reading by sound to large classes of blind by a single instructor.

The optophone, now being perfected in this manner, is the invention of Dr. E. S. Fournier D'Albe, of London. Ordinary print is read by the action of light on selenium.

"With the optophone perfected," said T. Irving Potter, president of the Federated Engineers Corporation, "came the vision of making the education of the blind a more simple and less expensive process through production by light of sound loud enough to be heard by a whole room full of students."

SOUND IS AMPLIFIED

"We have been experimenting on that for quite a period until just now we secured the right adjustment and were able to attach a radio amplifier. This is the result."

Mr. Potter turned on the current of the optophone. A scale with a five-note graduation, up and down, could be heard distinctly in any part of the large room. The letter which the five points of light were sounding on the selenium was A. The reading matter was placed on the optophone so that the points of light passed over it, catching the lower part of the first slanting line of the letter first. The points of light are arranged vertically; thus as they move along they catch the line of the A in succession, first an up succession, then passing the peak, a down succession.

The sound resulting from the letter F is quite different from the A sound, and so on through the alphabet.

Miss Margaret R. Hogan, a Columbia graduate who has been blind since she was five years old, assisted the engineers in their first experiments with the optophone.

"The first machine which was sent us from England was not in good condition," said Miss Hogan. "I have no ear for music, so possibly that hindered me in learning to read with the optophone. But in two months I was able to read well enough by sound really to enjoy it."

"I had no instructor and had to work out the meaning of the sounds myself. But having learned I find it quite an enjoyable way to read and can now interpret at just a little below ordinary conversational speed."

"The instrument can be set at book width or newspaper column width and moves automatically across the lines. It reproduces, in print, any kind of print and that means that the blind are no longer restricted in their reading to a few books which a committee decides are suitable for translation into Braille. We can read anything now! It practically opens a new world to us."

Help That Aching Back

Is your back giving out? Are you tired, miserable, all run down; tortured with nagging backache, lameness and sudden, stabbing pains? If so, look to your kidneys. Overwork, hurry and worry tend to weaken the kidneys. Backache and an all worn out feeling is often the first warning. Get back your health while you can. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy Appleton folks recommend. Ask your neighbor!

Here's an Appleton Case

Albert McAllister, retired farmer, 1925 Omaha-st., says: "I was bothered with backache, and when I crooked over I couldn't straighten up. Sharp pains bothered me constantly and made it hard for me to do anything. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and in three days' time, the backache had disappeared and I could do my work as well as ever."

MOSCOW IS USING FIRING SQUAD ON CORRUPT LEADERS

Death Within 48 Hours After Trial Awaits Bribe-takers and Embezzlers

Moscow.—With a fierceness that recalls the previous trade on pillagers and street bandits, which made Moscow's streets the safest in Europe after nightfall, the Bolsheviks recently began a war against corruption among public officials.

They are proceeding against the dishonest officials as they did against the bandits—with the firing squad. Death, in the Cheka's execution cellar within forty-eight hours after conviction, is the penalty awaiting graft-brokers caught and convicted of bribe-taking or embezzlement of government funds or stocks.

Twenty-five have been shot in Moscow during the last month to my personal knowledge, including one group of nineteen at once, and hundreds have been arrested. One single "haul" recently netted 300, the Moscow Soviet having given the Cheka a categorical order to jail everybody with any responsibility in an entire department—the housing department.

WILL KEEP ON

"We intend to keep on shooting until the grafting stops," a judge of one of the higher Revolutionary Tribunals remarked to the correspondent. "The difference, however, is that while the bandits were frequently shot up against a wall right on the spot where captured and immediately shot, the grafters are tried publicly in open court partly on the theory that the greater the publicity the greater the lesson. Intimate relatives of the accused and mere spectators are admitted impartially. Many heart-rending scenes follow announcements of verdicts in the court rooms."

In trying to uproot bribery and corruption, the Kremlin is attacking an institution almost as deeprooted and ancient in Russia as government itself. Bribery was always common in Russia. Officials from cabinet ministers down to office boys sold themselves time and time again under the old regime.

"Bribery offered the only way we had of getting anything done with dispatch," one Russian said to me. "It was a popular saying that only a fool extended an empty hand as he shook hands with an official; a wise man crumpled a rouble in his palm."

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrown nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

DOG IS PUPIL IN SCHOOL EACH DAY

Most Educated Canine in World, Named Jack Johnson, is Punctual Student

Washington, N. H.—The most educated dog in the world lives up here! He goes to school every day. He stays throughout the day's session.

He has a special seat and desk assigned to him.

He has an attendance report card issued to him every month—just like the rest of the pupils—and he has the best attendance record in the school.

The name of this knowledge-thirsty dog is Jack Johnson.

And though he's a black dog he wasn't named after the former boxing champion. You see, he was born before Johnson became champion.

NAMED JOHNSON

He's a member of the Johnson family here and his folks named him Jack—hence the name.

Now about his education—Jack's the devoted platmate and protector of his little master, Ralph Johnson, primary school pupil, and Ralph's little sister, who goes to the same school.

The two children walk to their country school every day through a dark, lonely stretch of wood, thick with underbrush.

They need Jack's protection on the way. So Jack goes along.

And when they get to school, Jack couldn't very well wait outside till the session's over—especially on cold days—could he?

So the teacher assigned a desk and seat to Jack. And there Jack sits all day.

He never breaks school rules—never barks or whines or distracts the attention of his fellow pupils.

MAY SLEEP

He has one privilege the rest don't have—when he gets tired of sitting up he can lie down and sleep by the stove! But that's never for long.

Only 29 pupils go to Jack's school, including Jack, Philip Marcy's the schoolmaster. Normally he's a sea captain in the United States Merchant Marine, but he's teaching in his spare time while shipping's slack.

Jack Johnson conducts himself in a manner befitting a gentleman and

JITNEY OWNERS TAKE NEW BONDS

Madison. — Jitneys, busses, and other automotive bonded carriers of Wisconsin, heavily hit by the failure of the cooperative Automobile Liability company, of Milwaukee March 2, were "coming back" strong, more than a score of the 115 whose bonds were lost by the failure of having filed new bonds with the state railroad commission.

One of the Wisconsin private insurance companies, offering a year's protection for $300 premium, $30 over the mark of the cooperative protective company that failed, was receiving the business of the jitneys.

Without renewing their bonds, the jitneys would have to cease operation.

My pupils are very fond of him.

"Jack has a deep-rooted love for this school and seems to have an insatiable appetite for learning."

Jack's master, Ralph, is proud of his educated pet.

"He always goes to school with my sister and me, rain or shine," Ralph says. "If all the kids had as good attendance records as Jack, this'd be a model school!"

"Woof! Woof! Gur! Gur!" says Jack.

That means:

"When I get through here I'm going to college and study dog-Latin."

EXPECT NEW RULER OF NIPPON TO DO NOTABLE THINGS

Hirohito Assumes Active Direction of Government Because of Father's Illness

Tokio — Japan is expecting big things of Hirohito, acting Emperor of Dai Nippon.

Hirohito was appointed Regent because of the prolonged and serious sickness of his father, the Emperor Yoshihito. He continues, also, to retain the title and position of Crown Prince, although his Regency is in effect an assumption now of the position he will fill upon the death of Yoshihito.

Hirohito is extremely popular among all classes throughout Japan. In addition to the veneration of the Emperor and the imperial family, which is an ingrained and fundamental feature of the Japanese code, Hirohito is the recipient of something more, something no other ruler of Japan has ever had. It is a sort of personal touch. It combines fondness and admiration for a likable individual, with religious and patriotic devotion to a ruler they regard as divinely descended.

If the average Japanese were to put the idea into American terms, it would be about like this: "We've all for Hirohito, simply because he's a good scout, and on his up-to-date and on his tip-toes all the time. Our ancient reverence is unchanged, you understand, but we feel that here's a pal as well as an Imperial ruler descended from the Gods."

The attitude is something like that of a proud family at college commencement, watching the favorite son who has corralled all the honors of his class. "Gosh! There's no telling what such a smart boy can do!" the family opines.

Of course there's a distinct conflict between this popular Japanese hopefulness of Hirohito's "doing things" and the circumscriptions of the Japanese plan which divorces politics and government completely from the Emperor's jurisdiction. It isn't probable that the mass of the people have thought the thing out of all and concluded that they want the system changed, or that they do not want it changed. They don't know just what they desire or except Hirohito to do. They just have a hankering for him, from which is born a blind sort of hunch that when he takes hold he is going to "put things over."

He may. The modernizing, liberalizing, progressive influences and effects of his European tour coupled with his own personal penchant for advancement may mean the modification of traditions and the beginning of a new order of things. Or the traditions may be too strong, after all.

GIGANTIC TASK FACES IRELAND

Building up New Governmental Structure Has Problems Never Anticipated

Dublin—Sinn Fein leaders today realize that gaining freedom for Ireland was only the first step of a gigantic task.

They must now set about building an entirely new governmental structure from cellar to roof.

During the fighting of the last 18 months the loose, rambling structure called the Sinn Fein government functioned very well.

But it was a war organization. It is unsuited to the uses of peace.

NEW ORGANIZATION NEEDED

Now Sinn Fein must work out an organization that will take over and administer the branches of government formerly in British hands. It will be guided only by the precedent of Canada, Australia and other self-governing dominions.

First, Sinn Fein statesmen must work out a written constitution limiting powers and functions of parliament, cabinet and judiciary.

Government costs money. That means taxation. Sinn Fein must prepare a budget and pass taxation laws. It must appoint Irish tax collectors to fill the places of the deposed British officials.

Government implies protection of life and property. That means armed forces. The Royal Irish Constabulary that has guarded Ireland for scores of years will be disbanded.

ARMY IS NECESSARY

So Sinn Fein must organize police forces and an army. Plenty of material will be found in the ranks of the present revolutionary Irish republican army.

And the new Ireland will need courts—police courts, magisterial courts, courts of appeal, a supreme court. Skeleton courts have been in existence since the revolution started, but a more elaborate system will be needed.

Important cabinet positions will be those dealing with agriculture and industry. Sinn Fein already has investigated methods of improving farming and dairying, increasing fisheries and encouraging industries and can present detailed reports to the new government.

A protective tariff bill probably will be needed to foster home industries and bar outside competition.

And Ireland will have the right to issue its own postage stamps and money. Very soon, it is reported, the government will offer prizes to Irish artists for designing emblematic stamps and coins.

Wanted: Two silk hats, two frock coats, two vests with large pockets for cigars two mahogany desks. Apply Leon Jaycox and W. G. Abner, joint presidents and owners, Hammondsport and Bath railroad.

These two want ads haven't appeared in any paper yet but they set forth the needs of Conductor Jaycox and Station Agent Abner.

For overnight the two railway employees have become sole owners of a railway.

It's only nine miles long but it's a real honest-to-goodness railway with stations and freighthouses and tracks and engines and everything.

It used to be a profitable branch of the Erie. That was when Bath and Hammondsport were champagne-producing centers.

But with the coming of Volstead, traffic slumped. Freight trains ran only once a day. Passenger trains thrice weekly.

Then the Erie decided to abandon the line.

But up stepped Jaycox and Abner. "We'll lease it," they said. "We know local conditions and we can make it pay."

U. S. STILL FIRST IN MOVIE WORLD

Leadership in Production of Films Remains But Quality Sometimes Lacks

New York—America is in no immediate danger of losing its leadership as the world's greatest quantity producer of motion picture films.

A check-up shows that the "invasion" of America by foreign-made films is one of quality instead of quantity.

Our imports of exposed movie films last year were about a half bigger than in 1920, measured in feet. But they were less than half as much as in 1914.

Our exports of movie films fell off about a fifth in 1921, compared with 1920, but totaled more than four times as much as in 1914.

Here are figures showing our foreign trade in movie films, based on preliminary reports for 1921:

Imports
1921 ..... 9,000,000 feet
1914 ..... 20,057,000 feet

Exports
1921 ..... 140,000,000 feet
1914 ..... 32,590,000 feet.

About half the movie films shown in England are American-made.

American movies have been highly successful in taking the South American market from Italian producers.

America and Italy are furnishing about half of the movies exhibited in France.

London—Ethel Irving, the English actress, starred in a London court with a dramatic critic as villain.

The critic had written of Miss Irving that "in the third act she became a raging, frothy epileptic, rolling on the floor and biting her toenails."

So Miss Irving brought suit for libel.

"At no time did I froth at the mouth!" she declared in court.

Miss Irving: Why, certainly not! I just lay on the floor sobbing.

Judge: Did you bite your toenails?

Miss Irving: Not by any stretch of the imagination could I be said to have done that!

Judge: Were you wearing shoes and stockings?

Miss Irving: Certainly.

Judge: Did you bite them?

Miss Irving: Of course not.

Whereupon Miss Irving was duly vindicated and the critic sharpened his pencil to lampoon someone else.

PHILIPPINES RICH IN NATURAL RESOURCES

Manila—Do the American people know that they own 100,000 square miles of public lands in the Philippines, and that this land is, most of it, tremendously rich in natural resources. One of the first things Governor Wood proposes to do is to reorganize the bureau of lands and get the public domain surveyed and under title.

The democratic acting Governor-General, Chas. E. Yeater, speaking in Manila on the eve of his departure, endorsed this proposal and said "The Philippines can support a population equal to the present population of the United States."

Yeater said that the total land area of the islands is 120,000 square miles, about that of Japan proper; but the Philippines produce big crops the year round, 60 per cent against 12 per cent in Japan) of the land is tillable, while the forest resources are immeasurably more valuable than those of Japan.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BILLY WINGO, good-natured ranger-herd of Golden Bar, is elected sheriff of Crocker County by the gang of politicians and cattle thieves who believe that Wingo is too easy-going to interfere with their activities.

HAZEL WALTON, niece of an honest ranchowner, saves Billy from being shot from ambush by JACK MURRAY, disappointed candidate, but she is unable to make Billy resign from the office after members of the gang have threatened to kill Wingo if he fails to carry out their orders. Billy and Hazel quarrel.

RAFE TUCKLETON, wealthy cattle thief, fears that Tom Walton has evidence against the gang, but Tip O'Gorman, political leader, refuses to agree to hiring DAN SLIKE, gunman, to kill Hazel's uncle, Judge Driver, another politician, tells O'Gorman that Wingo has appointed two honest deputies, Shillman and Tyler.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Suppose Bill does appoint two honest deputies?" asked Tip. "What are two deputies going to do against Bill's orders? I can manage Bill Wingo."

"I wish I could be sure of that," worried the Judge.

To Billy Wingo that evening came Tip O'Gorman; a bluff, hearty, good-natured Tip; a Tip that told funny stories and was a good listener himself and laughed at the right place. "Sworn in your deputies yet?" Tip made casual inquiry.

"Not yet. Storm might have kept 'em away."

"Who are they?"

"Shotgun Shillman and Riley Tyler."

"We expect you to appoint Johnson and Kenaley," Tip said bluntly.

"And if I don't?"

"Oh, you will—after you've thought it over."

"I thought it over after Judge Driver came to me. And I decided not to. I prefer my own men."

Tip O'Gorman sighed. He thought he saw what he would have to do. And he didn't want to do it. It meant one more mouth to feed, and one more finger in the pie.

"You see, Bill, it's thisaway," said Tip. "Some years the party makes more than other years, and—"

"And the years it makes the most," insisted Bill, "are the years I make the most. Is that it?"

"You got the general idea."

But not the general idea of what I get," persisted the strangely obtuse sheriff. "What is the minimum I can expect?"

"From three to five thousand dollars," said Tip watching his vis-a-vis closely.

Mr. Wingo paused and looked up at the ceiling. His lips moved. He mused of figures and sums.

"I think between nine and ten thousand is nearer the correct amount for my me," Billy said at last.

Billy made his position plain. "Say ten thousand in round numbers."

Tip O'Gorman made an odd noise in his throat. But he dismissed this seemingly murderous rage very well indeed.

"I never said ten thousand for a sheriff before," protested Tip.

"There's nothing like establishing a precedent. Don't be hidebound."

Tip O'Gorman raised plump hands to the level of his ears. "I didn't think when I proposed you for sheriff," he remarked earnestly, "that I was proposing a mad agent too. Oh, yes, sir. But what can a feller do? Ten thousand goes. About those deputies—I don't suppose you'll have any objections, now that you've got what you want, to appointing Johnson and Kenaley?"

"Oh, yes, indeed I have—plenty. No Johnson and no Kenaley. Shillman and Tyler. Yes."

"No. You've got to earn that ten thousand."

"Bribery and corruption, Tip, is a serious crime."

"Boah! You listen to me, young feller. We're buying you, body, soul and roll, with that ten thousand cause."

"Tip, you're an old sounder!"

Tip O'Gorman stared with an odd expression at Billy Wingo. "You have changed," he remarked with conviction. "I wonder—"

He got up heavily and began to pull on his overcoat.

When he was gone, Billy Wingo crossed the room unburdened and buried the door.

"All right, boys," he said in a conversational tone. "You can come out now."

The door of an inner room opened. Two men emerged. One was a long, lean citizen with a long, lean face barred by a heavy grizzled mustache. The other was shorter, of equally lean build, and considerably younger. The older man was Shotgun Shillman, the younger was Riley Tyler.

In Riley's hand was a thin block of paper. A pencil stuck up behind his ear.

"Did you get it all?" queried Billy, sitting down in his chair and hunching it close to the table.

"Most of it," Riley replied. "All the important part, especially where he tried to buy you up. Gee, you've got him now. Send him over the road any time."

It was the next day that Arthur Tate, the district attorney, called on the new sheriff. He was a heavy-jawed, heavy-handed, heavy-bodied individual, with black hair, close set eyes, and what was curiously at variance with those heavy jaws a long and pointed nose.

"I hear you've appointed Shillman and Tyler deputies," Tate said accusingly. "You've got to cancel their appointments."

"Got to?"

"Got to."

"I must be gettin' deaf," drawled Billy. "Seems like I heard you say got to."

"We can't have you upsetting our plans in any way, Wingo. I order you to immediately cancel the appointments of Shillman and Tyler and appoint instead Johnson and Kenaley. Do you understand?"

"Yes," said Billy in a weary voice. "I understand. I understand perfectly. You can go now."

"I'll go when I have your answer."

"Your mistake. You're going now."

Even as he spoke he leaped with cat-like agility upon the district attorney where he sat in his chair and wrenched the right arm of that surprised gentleman around behind his back.

With his left hand Billy withdrew the bar from the staple, opened the door, swung his right foot and kicked the district attorney out into a snow-drift. After him Billy tossed his coat and cap. Then he closed the door and shoved the bar into place.

"And that's that," said Billy Wingo.

CHAPTER VII

"You took your own time about coming," grunted Rafe Tuckleton.

Dan Slike crossed his knees and stared at Rafe and Skinny Shindie.

"Why hurry?"

"Because you should," nagged Rafe. "This Tom Walton has gone on living all fall."

"That's tough," sympathized Mr. Slike.

"It's worse'n that. Tom ain't the only li'l job I want you to attend to. There's the sheriff, Billy Wingo."

"That will be extra."

Rafe Tuckleton considered a moment.

"I thought it over after Judge Driver came to me. And I decided not to. I prefer my own men."

Tip O'Gorman sighed. He thought he saw what he would have to do. And he didn't want to do it. It meant one more mouth to feed, and one more finger in the pie.

"You see, Bill, it's thisaway," said Tip. "Some years the party makes more than other years, and—"

"And that's that," said Billy Wingo.

CHAPTER VIII

"It's the women make half the trouble in the world," mused young Riley Tyler, who had received the mitten from his girl of the period, the restaurant waitress, and was a misogynist in consequence.

Riley moved listlessly to the front window and drummed on the pane.

"Oh, dear," Riley groaned. "Here's work for my boys. As if there wasn't enough to do in summer."

Billy Wingo joined Riley at the window. "Looks like Simon Reelfoot. I can see his long nose."

Simon Reelfoot was not well thought of by the more decent portion of the community. Men that put money out at high interest and are careless of their neighbors' property usually aren't.

Reelfoot rode up and tied his horse. "You make me sick you fellows. Talk! Talk! Talk! All right, I will see if you're able to do anything besides talk. Two of my cows have been shot and there's two more strangers hanging in that old shack of Cayler's on Mule Creek."

"Suspicious don't count for much," said Billy. "You know that, Reelfoot. Have you any evidence against these men?"

"Sure I have," was the reply. "The bodies of my two cows and a plain track of blood and manure with in a mile of the cabin."

Billy nodded approvingly. "That's better. Shotgun and I will be with you in two minutes."

"I don't guess there's any tearing rush," he mumbled.

"A minute ago you were in a hot sweat to have us do something right away quick. And now you ain't. What has changed you, Mr. Reelfoot? I ask to know."

"I want the job done right," was the lame explanation. "If you hustle off too sudden you might forget thing."

"What do you think we're liable to forget?" queried Billy.

"How do I know what? But I know it don't pay to go off halfcocked."

Simon Reelfoot's eyes strayed to the window. When the eyes swiveled back to meet those of Billy Wingo, the pucker of worry had been wiped from Reelfoot's eyebrows.

HAS WEALTH BUT IS TICKET TAKER

Special to The Post-Crescent
Philadelphia—Every morning Samuel Pavanarius summons his liveried chauffeur to drive his luxurious limousine around and is driven to work at the Municipal Zoological Garden.

Pavanarius is a ticket taker there. First thing he does, usually, upon arriving is to sweep off the sidewalk in front of his ticket booth.

Twenty years ago Pavanarius' friend James Edwards, had an idea for improving shoe manufacturing machinery. Pavanarius put in his small capital to finance the venture.

Today Edwards' idea and Pavanarius' capital have grown into a 10-story shoe manufacturing plant. And Pavanarius is wealthy.

But the old job at the Zoo, which Pavanarius held for 46 years, still called. And Pavanarius, despite his wealth, still sticks to it—seven days a week.

"Five hundred dollars apiece for Tom and the sheriff," said he.

"We'll bargain for 'em separately," said Slike. "One thousand for Tom, payable in advance."

"I suppose I'll have to do as you say," Rafe grumbled. "And the same amount for the sheriff."

"Not a tall," denied Slike. "Not a tall. Killing this sheriff for you means I gotta leave the county on the jump. Do you suppose I'm gonna run the risk of being lynched for a measly thousand dollars? If you do, take another think. Take two of 'em! Me, I'll take two thousand for your man."

"Oh, hell, it's all right!" Rafe cried, tossing up helpless hands. "Come around here tomorrow noon and get your money."

SECTIONAL PREP CAGE TOURNEY OPENS THURSDAY

Appleton High Athletes
In Fine Shape On Eve Of Big Basketball Classic

Orange and Blue Quintet Ready for Hard Grind on Oshkosh Normal Floor to Decide Championship.

With every man on the squad in excellent physical condition this Appleton High school basketball team is ready for the sectional tournament that opens Thursday afternoon in the Oshkosh Normal gymnasium.

The Orange and Blue athletes were sent through their last hard workout in preparation for the big championship classic Tuesday evening on Armory G floor. A blackboard drill was held Wednesday afternoon in the high school gymnasium following which the players were sent home with instructions from Coach Vincent to retire early to get a full night's rest before the tournament grind.

Coach Vincent is satisfied with the form shown by his team in practice the last few days and is confident the Appleton cage will be strong contenders for the sectional title. The team work displayed by the quintet this week has been excellent, the offense has been going at a furious clip and the defense has been exceptionally strong. The men have been showing dash and fight on the floor and have their eyes trained on the basket.

NINE ON SQUAD
Members of the squad, accompanied by Coach Vincent, left Thursday morning for Oshkosh. The following men comprised the squad: Bries, Ashman, Huzzman, Laughlin, Havens, Roach, Zornbeck and Gillespie. Coach Vincent has announced his lineup to start the first game as follows: Bries, center; Roach and Zornbeck, guards. The tournament will get underway at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Drawings were made at noon Thursday. Eight teams will compete in the classic. The preliminary games will be played Thursday and Friday, and the semifinal and final games will be contested on Saturday. The tournament is a straight elimination affair, one defeat eliminating a contestant. To go through to the final game a team must play two preliminary contests. Appleton, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Shawano, Oconto, Neenah, West Green Bay and Marinette will compete for the championship. The winning team will represent this section of the state in the state championship tournament at Madison next week.

APPLETON A FAVORITE
Appleton, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac are the favorites to win. These teams have hung up good records this season and are exceptionally strong and evenly matched. Appleton has won one game and lost one in two contests with Fond du Lac this season. Oshkosh has defeated Fond du Lac and Appleton has defeated Oshkosh.

The Appleton team now holds the state championship by virtue of winning the sectional and state tournaments last year.

Oshkosh Normal school will pay the expenses of the teams participating in the tournament and also give trophies. A silver plaque mounted on a polished wooden shield will be presented to the team winning the championship, and gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded to the members of the three teams taking first, second and third places, respectively. There will also be a trophy for the team having the best appearance and showing the finest sportsmanship.

A. H. Eyer, boys secretary of the Fond du Lac Y. M. C. A. and Coach Harold Olson of Ripon college will be the referees.

FIGHT RESULTS

Boston — Young Montreal, Providence bantamweight, won the decision from Danny Edwards, California, in ten rounds.

New York — Tony Lyons, New York, outpointed Young Pierce, in ten rounds.

Wilkesbarre, Pa. — Dave Shade, California, won a ten round newspaper decision Wednesday night from Johnny Kiley, Wilkesbarre.

CHAMP EXPECTS TO KEEP TITLE

Schaefer Confident He Will Beat Willie Hoppe in Chicago Match

San Francisco. — Jake Schaefer, billiard champion, is supremely confident that he will beat Willie Hoppe, former world's champion, when the two meet in a return match 1,500 points in blocks of 500, at Chicago on March 27, 28 and 29.

While he was in San Francisco, which Schaefer calls home, Schaefer heard reports to the effect that Hoppe has virtually lived on a billiard table since his defeat. But Schaefer does not appear to be greatly worried over any new record the ex-champ may have in store for him at Chicago.

Schaefer also scouted the theory that Hoppe lost the championship to him because he was over-confident and not in the best of condition.

"I actually believe I will win from Hoppe easier in our return match than I did when I won the championship," said Schaefer.

PRACTICED MUCH
"I don't doubt that Hoppe has been practicing constantly since he lost his title. But don't overlook the fact that not only has he always taken perfect care of himself, but that he practiced more than any billiard champion in the world during his reign as champion. Hoppe never allowed his game to fall behind. It was not lack of practice that lost him his title."

The report that Hoppe was nervous and off his game amuses Schaefer. While admitting that Willie was nervous in their first match, which he had to win in order to get the final match with Hoppe, Jake asserts that the former champion was like chilled steel in the contest for the title.

"Billiards is not a question of phenomenal shooting today and ordinary shooting tomorrow," explained the champ. "It is a matter of averages. What you do in 100 or 200 matches is what counts, not what you accomplish in a few games."

"Hoppe has a better average in the tournament in which he lost the title than he ever established in his entire career. Hoppe's average was, I think, 34. Mine was over 50."

Schaefer will train at French Lick, Ind. He plans to take things easy for two weeks, after which he will begin practicing for his match with Hoppe.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Judge Landis has a way of his own in doing business. Recently Ed Rommel, who is at odds with Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics, sent a newspaper clipping to the baseball commissioner in which Mack launched a broadside at the dissatisfied player. Rommel asked Landis to take a hand and the Judge came back with the reply that he didn't care to participate in the newspaper war. Rommel has not been heard from since.

There appears to be a whole lot of excitement kicked up over nothing in regard to the 1924 Olympiad. It seems that all is not quiet in France and that some of the athletic association is not rallying to the support of the Olympic body in proper manner and some of the leaders have thrown up their hands. However, the French government has stepped into the breach and will take over the sport competition. This squashes Los Angeles' hopes of staging the world wide affair year after next.

Gibbons left himself in the gym. That is the opinion of Jack Britton, welterweight champion, after Harry Grob had finished putting the skids under the hopes of the St. Paul High heavyweight for a bout with Dempsey. In other words, Britton meant that Gibbons had gone stale in his training stunts. Sure there was something wrong with the fighting Irishman because, according to ring siders he looked but a shadow of his own self.

The Mid-West baseball association, composed of crack semi-professional teams, decided to number their players for the convenience of the spectators. The numbers will be worn on the back of the shirt and enable the fans to tell immediately what is being pulled off on the diamond. This isn't a half bad idea and we wouldn't be surprised if some other baseball organizations adopted this same plan before the season is past history.

About another six weeks and the Valley leaguers will swing into action. The bit of spring weather we have had of late has turned the thoughts of the fans to baseball and the opening of the season can't come too soon. Unless the hope is all wrong, the Fox River valley is going to have the best grade of baseball since the days of the old W-I league. Every team in the league is making plans to hop off on the right foot in their dash towards pennantville.

"Gets-It"
Removes
Corns Quick

No matter how tough or how stubborn it may have been, the corn or callus that is touched with a few drops of "Gets-It" is doomed to quick, easy, sure and painless end. Never again can it pain you. Soon you are holding in your fingers a small, smooth, single piece of dead, shriveled skin that you throw away forever. Hard corns, soft corns, any corn, callus, blisters and warts. Try it. E. Lawrence & Co., Mfrs., Chicago.

Says Rheumatism
Leaves You Forever

James H. Allen, of Congress Avenue, Rochester, N. Y., once a rheumatic cripple, who discovered ALLENRHU and with it banished every trace of uric acid and every sign of rheumatism from his body, says that every druggist guarantees a full pint of ALLENRHU to show the way to complete recovery or money back.

It relieves at once and immediately after you start to take ALLENRHU the good work begins. It searches out uric acid deposits, dissolves the secretions and drives rheumatic poison out of the body through the kidneys and bowels. Even in cases where suffering has been pitiless and painful all traces of this dread disease disappear in a few days. Voight's Drug Store can supply you.

DON'T LET THAT COLD

The value of Father John's Medicine has been proven by more than sixty-five years of success. It soothes and heals the breathing passages, and because of the nourishing food elements it contains, helps to rebuild wasted tissues and gives new strength with which to rebuild health. Get rid of that cold or cough now, before it is too late.

Operation Not Successful

"16 years ago I was operated for appendicitis and later operated again for gall stones. Neither did me any good and I suffered all kinds of tortures since. Five years ago I took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and have felt no symptoms or pain since. All stomach sufferers should take it." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. adv.

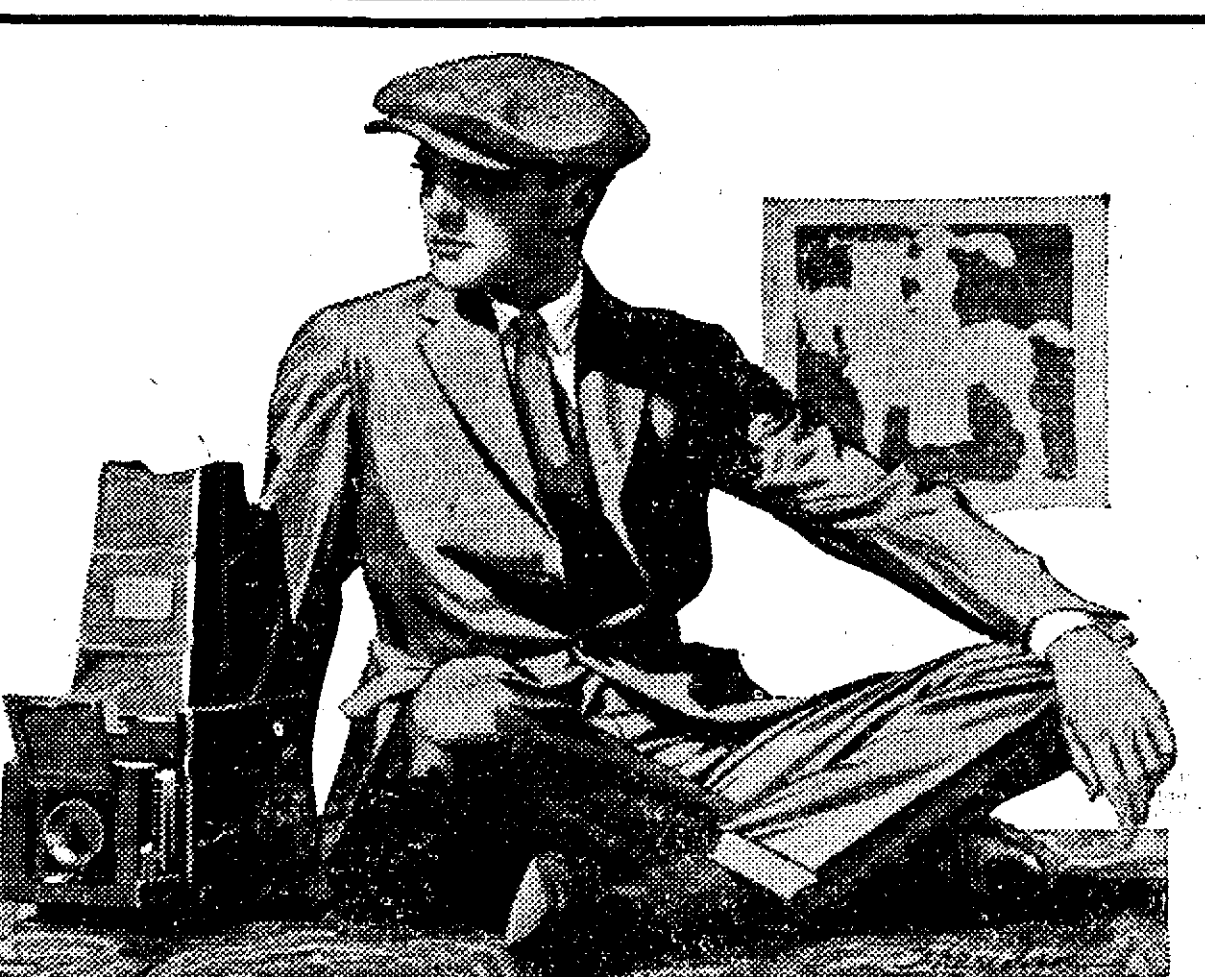

Right field will be a bothersome spot for Miller Huggins until Bob Meusel can get back into the game. Bobby Roth may get a chance in right. Possibly Wally Schang will be used in the outfield.

Bobby Roth is the most unique holdout of the season. Roth was unfit for play practically all year. He received his entire salary. Now he seeks more money.

SHOT ROOSEVELT TO SAVE COUNTRY

John Shranck Says Someone Had to Combat Third Party and Militarism

By United Press Leased Wire
Waupun—Some one had to save the United States from a third party and militarism. I decided to do it. No one told me to do it.

With these words, John Shranck, the man who shot Theodore Roosevelt at Milwaukee during the 1912 presidential campaign, broke a silence of nearly ten years and in an exclusive interview with the United Press, gave this as his reason for the attempted assassination of the former president.

Shranck, who is a member of the state hospital for the criminally insane, seemed mentally alert. He is a deep thinker, a student of politics and is well versed in world affairs.

Plaid All Wool Skirtings for $1.98

Hats ON THE PINNACLE OF FASHION are displaying an air of warm weather. Not only spring but also summer is foretold in a rather wide hat of fine hair braid and maline. Around the crown are graceful sprays of wheat and flowers—the entire hat and its trimming is radiant in the new shade of apple blossom. Another wide hat is made of a richly patterned black lace. Feathery burnt goose edges the base of the crown and the upper side of the brim is trimmed in a floral outline pattern of fine narrow straw braid.

Such an interesting material as moire silk makes a smart looking hat. This soft shape is of a fine navy moire. A tinsel cording outlines the hat and enlivens the sober color. Jade green is greatly favored this spring. This straw model is faced with black faille silk. The black is carried out in the tuft of bix at the side. It is a Belnord model. Bix feathers are the sole trimming of a Scherman hat. A small shape of fine Milan and a single band of crepe ribbon mark it as very correct. The prices are satisfyingly low.
